GOLDFIELD CON. MINING CO. SELLS ALL PROPERTY TO A NEW COMPANY

Properties of the Goldfield Consolidated Mines company, for a number of years the largest producer of gold in Nevada, are to be taken over by a new company, known as the Goldfield Mining company, and possession will be transferred today to H. McMahon, as trustee for the new company, which is now in process of organization, says the Reno Gazette. Mr. McMahon will be at the head of the new company and associated with him will be men who are prominent in Nevada mining circles and who are counted among the successful operators of the state.

Under the terms of this transaction, as announced by officers of the Consolidated company in San Francisco, and by Mr. McMahon, a part of the properties will be deeded directly to Mr. McMahon as trustee, and the remaining ground will be leased by the new company for a term of five years. Some of the property that is not deeded to the new corporation will be held under option of purchase, in addition to being leased.

There will be a complete change in management and in the administrative organization, and it is understood that the company's operations will be in charge of one of the most widely known mine managers in the state.

An important factor in the company's operations is expected to be the new leasing policy, which will open to leasing large areas of ground that has long been sought by lessees. Much of this ground, it is said, can be worked to good advantage by lessees, but cannot be made to yield a profit when worked by a large corporation, with a necessarily heavy overhead expense.

MAYFLOWER SAVING ORE FOR MILLING

The Consolidated Mayflower Mines company ten-day report ending January 31, shows the following work in the mine:

The 501 drift was advanced 16 feet, total distance 48 feet with low values showing for the total distance. 405 drift was advanced 14 feet in ore, the total distance assaying from $8 to $27.30 per ton.

The 404 crosscut was advanced 16 feet. This crosscut is being run to cut the footwall vein. The 405 hanging-wall crosscut was advanced 10 feet. This crosscut is being run to cut the hanging-wall section of 200 ft. slope.

South drift 302 was advanced 14 feet and continues to show rich small stringers. North crosscut 308 was advanced 12 feet toward the daylight vein.

Raise 309 was advanced 30 feet. The face of this raise shows 7 feet of $22.20 ore. This raise has produced 150 tons of $15.40 ore which has been stored in the mine.

Drift 203, which has showed low values for some time, was advanced 20 feet.

FIRST STORM OF SPRING COMES TO TONOPAH

It looked worse but the weather observer says only three inches of snow showed on his measuring machine at the station. The heavy fog can fall about dusk last evening and continued with intermissions until 11 o'clock this morning. Owing to the heavy wind prevailing last night the snow drifted in places to a depth of two feet. This afternoon a warm wind helped to melt the snow which is rapidly disappearing.

SARIC DIVORCE CASE PUT OFF UNTIL NEXT MONDAY

In the petition for a divorce submitted by Mrs. Marie Crane Saric against her husband, Gregory Saric, arguments were heard this morning on the application for divorce to establish the probable extent of alimony. There was some difficulty in ascertaining the income of defendant and, in order that he might have time to canvass his income, the case went over to Monday morning at 10 o'clock.

debt to Ashton, and that it is not acting in good faith toward him. The money is due him and should be paid, and the company should make an effort to pay instead of an effort to escape without paying.

"The broad principle applicable here is that the company owes Ashton the money claimed and should pay it—that it should not take advantage of Ashton's indulgence to ward it off to defeat his claim altogether; if it means to pay out of ore, which is its obligation just as much as it is Ashton's to take his money out of ore, it should produce ore and not put itself in the position of being unable to realize anything out of ore for the payment of its debt to him."

"It looks very much as though the company were attempting to avoid its debt to Ashton, and that it is not acting in good faith toward him. The money is due him and should be paid, and the company should make an effort to pay instead of an effort to escape without paying."

can be worked to good advantage by lessees, but cannot be made to yield a profit when worked by a large corporation, with a necessarily heavy overhead expense.

Announcement was made a short time ago by the Consolidated management of changes in the leasing system, on a basis regarded by lessees as favorable, and it is said that more than 50 applications for new leases have been received.

In financing the new company it is the plan to offer to the present stockholders of the Consolidated Mines company the first opportunity to subscribe for stock of the new corporation at the initial issue price and for a limited period. The stock will be listed in New York and San Francisco.

The plan does not involve the exchange of stock of the present company for that of the Goldfield Mining company.

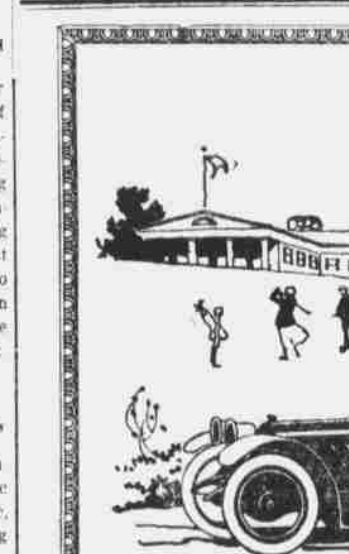

The Goldfield Consolidated Mines company was organized by George Wingfield and the late Senator George S. Nixon, and was a merger of the Mohawk, Combination, Jumbo, Red Top, Laguna and Goldfield Mining companies. The principal production has been from the Mohawk, Combination, Jumbo, Red Top and Laguna groups, and total production has been in excess of $70,000,000, with dividends of nearly $20,000,000. During one year of operations the net profits exceeded $1,000,000 monthly, and the average value of ore treated was about $75 a ton, a record for a large gold mine.

BURROUGHS EDSALL STRICKEN

Burroughs Edsall, well known Nevada mining man and former resident of Tonopah, was stricken with a stroke of paralysis last week in Napa, Cal., and is in a very serious condition. It is said the stroke of paralysis resulted from an attack of influenza that Edsall suffered a week before. Following the stroke in Napa, Edsall was removed to his home in Berkeley.
